Bloody Mutiny Put Down On Korea Island

By United Press
Allied guards have put down a Communist mutiny in the bloodiest prison camp riot of the war. Eighty-two Communist civilian prisoners were shot to death on Pongam Island off Southern Korea. Another 129 were wounded. Two Americans and two South Koreans were injured by rocks thrown at them in the clash. About 3000 of the island's 5000 prisoners took part in the riot. The prisoners involved were Korean civilians captured by the Chinese Communist or North Korean armies. The trouble started when they tried to hold organized military drills—a violation of orders. The allied guards were ordered to break up the demonstration and they started to march on three ranks of PWs. But other prisoners threw rocks at the guards and kept them from the main body of demonstrators. UN officers then told the Reds to return to their quarters, but the prisoners replied with taunts and jeers. A warning volley was fired into the air. This, too, had no effect. Instead the three waves of Reds—their arms locked together—advanced on the guards. The wind was blowing the wrong way for the guards to use tear gas. They opened fire with riot guns, carbines and machine to break up the riot. A spokesman says the prisoners reached a "pitch of fanaticism which caused them to move into guns they knew were going to kill them." The UN says it now has "uncontested control of the situation."

Quick Action Saves B-29 And Crew In Korea Action

By United Press
The flight of American bombers was on target. One at a time the planes made their run. The bombs dropped away toward North Korea and the big B-29s superiors headed for home. But in one plane, something went wrong. A photoflash bomb, used to light up the target area, got stuck in the bomb bay. It carried a time fuse set for 60 seconds. And it carried enough high explosives to blow the superfort to bits. The thirteen crew members had down with death before. But enemy planes and ack-ack were things you knew about, could figure. This was different. One of your own bombs, meant for the enemy, ticking away in the bomb-bay. Sixty seconds. The pilot stuck with the controls. The bombardier jiggled his equipment frantically. The gunners stayed at their stations. The plane flew on. Fifty-nine seconds. 58. 57. Then Alvin First Class Ernest Goois of Glasgow, Pennsylvania, went into action. He practically dove into the bomb-bay. The fuse ticked away while Goois worked with fingers numb by cold. The rest of the crew mentally counted seconds. Forty, 39, 38. Finally—Goois straightened up, the fuse in his hand. Twenty-eight seconds had passed. There were only 32 seconds left to go when the ticking stopped. A few hours later the plane set down at Okinawa. The crew drank a toast to Goois—and to 32 seconds.

By United Press
FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 15 (UP)—State Highway Department warned motorists of slippery roads for the year to date. At the same time, a number of traffic fatalities were reported. ## Fight On For Lives Of Men On Broken Ship

By United Press
A fight for 37 lives—a fight against time and the elements—is underway at Loughorn Harbor, Italy. A gale is whipping the harbor now. It's night time and it's cold. A bare hundred yards off shore a United States Navy crew is hanging desperately to their battered fragment of a ship, the supply vessel "Grommet Reefer." On shore, a group of men, Americans and Italians, are battling the wind and cold, the dark and the rain, and the clock—to rescue the marooned sailors. The gale hit the har'or suddenly and flung the Grommet Reefer onto the rocks. The ship split in two. The 40 men aboard huddled in the stern, which remained on the rocks. The other half was driven off, and finally caught on a sand bar a few hundred yards away. The waves pounded the ship while a breeches buoy was rigged up. One end was attached to a flagpole of the Italian Naval Academy whose grounds are opposite the reef. Three of the 40 men were hauled safely ashore. Then darkness fell. Searchlights from the Naval Academy were turned on. The first man ashore, engineer Carl Truedler of Bellaire, Long Island, urged the rescuers to hurry. He himself was unharmed but he says the stern is taking terrific hammering from the gale. The thick steel plates are beginning to buckle—and the situation is becoming increasingly dangerous for the 37 men still aboard.

Hopkinsville Grand Jury To Convene Today

HOPKINSVILLE, Dec. 15. (UP)—Christian county's special grand jury in 20 years is to convene today by circuit judge Ira D. Smith to look into vice conditions in that West Kentucky city. The charges were leveled in late October by a federal grand jury in Paducah, which charged that Hopkinsville Police had encouraged vice by accepting bribes and pay-offs and had "brutally beaten or killed soldiers at nearby Fort Campbell. Since that scathing report several follow-up activities have been taken by authorities, which included suspension of six policemen, minor charges by a court of inquiry, and a criticism of the federal jury itself. One of the purposes of the special grand jury will be to investigate the reason the federal jury did not return formal indictments in condemning vice and law enforcement in Hopkinsville.

Those In State Mental Hospitals And Welfare Institutions Have A Full Christmas Season Celebration Planned

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Patients and inmates of Kentucky's mental hospitals and welfare institutions will have a full season of celebration at Christmas time this year. Christmas observances will range from the awarding of a week at home to some children at the Houses of Reform in Greendale to the regular religious services and Christmas dinners that will feature Christmas at all institutions. At Kentucky State Reformatory, LaGrange, inmates will present a musical comedy on Christmas eve. At this time Christmas packages will be presented to the 2,000 inmates. The performers will take the same musical comedy to Kentucky Children's Home, Lyndon and Central State Hospital, Lakeland, both in Jefferson county, during the Christmas season. A number of Christmas events are planned for the Children's Home. The Kiwanis and Younger Woman's clubs of Louisville are entertaining all the children at a party in the Brown Hotel, Louisville, December 23. The clubs are seeing to it that each child will have a number of gifts, and gifts are also coming from other organizations, which are giving parties. All the children in the home have been taken on Christmas shopping expeditions to Louisville, so that they may buy gifts for the other children and for family and friends at home. Many of the children will spend Christmas in their own homes. Arrangements have been made by the social service staff at the home, and visits will be allowed where there is someone for the children to visit. At Greendale, more than 100 boys and girls will be allowed Christmas at home. The Honor Citizens, those with the highest citizenship rank at the schools as determined by a week off. Senior Citizens the next in rank will get three or four days. This will mark the first time in Greendale history that a large number of children have spent Christmas at home. For those who stay at the schools over Christmas, there will be parties, caroling and other entertainment. Church and civic groups from Lexington will provide gifts for the children. Children at the Kentucky Training Home, Frankfort, will be entertained by 14 church and civic groups during the holidays. The institution will provide gifts for all the children. Groups of Negro and white children will each present plays. Local church groups will bring religious programs to prisoners at Kentucky State Penitentiary, Eddyville, and a special Christmas dinner will be served. Other entertainment is also planned at the Penitentiary and at the Women's Prison, Pine Bluff, Shelby County. The four mental hospitals will celebrate Christmas with ward parties, dances, caroling, religious services and the exchange of gifts. At Central State Hospital, a caravan sponsored by the Jefferson County Recreation Board, visited to bring gifts to the patients December 15 to the patients. December 15 to the patients. The caravan was made up of some 100 cars from churches, clubs, schools and civic groups. Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus led the motorcade. The gifts will be packaged and presented Christmas evening at a dance. Another feature of the celebration at Central State is that the

Chinese Turn Down Peace Plan

By United Press
The Chinese Communists made it official today—they will not accept India's plan for peace in Korea. The Chinese note was received at UN headquarters in New York City this morning—written by Communist foreign minister Chou En-Lai. The Indian peace plan was adopted by the UN General Assembly, with only the Communist bloc in opposition. Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinskiy—in turning down the plan before the UN—said the Chinese also would not go along with it. Today's note, therefore, only bears out what the UN had expected. Prime Minister Nehru of India says he "deeply regrets" the Chinese have rejected the peace proposal. But he says he hopes they will reconsider.

TEXAS MAN A HERO THANKS TO HOLLYWOOD

By United Press
Sixty-two year old Otis Ward of Dallas, Texas, is a hero today, thanks to Hollywood. Ward, his three-year old grandson and a friend entered a supermarket just in time to discover a bandit holding a gun on the clerk. The gunman's back was turned to Ward. The grandfather grabbed the holdup-man. Ward's friend grabbed some soft drink bottles and began beating the robber over the head. The three-year old grandson joined the battle, kicking the bandit in the shins. The robber was routed. He shouted, "I give up" and fled. Ward says—"I know it was a foolish thing to do. I guess I've been seeing too many moving pictures."

Ike's Return Brings Songs And Expressions Of Pleasure

By United Press
There was singing on Morningside Heights last night. A group of girls from Barnard College gathered on Dwight Eisenhower's lawn to serenade the President-elect with Christmas carols on his return from a successful Korean trip. And there was singing on Capitol Hill also—where congressmen expressed their pleasure at the general's statement issued just after his plane touched ground at La Guardia Field yesterday afternoon. Eisenhower said the Communists can be impressed only by deeds—not words. He said that what he could report publicly of his trip was limited—both because he is not yet President, and because of routine security regulations. But the President-elect did reveal three observations made on the trip. First—the training of South Korean forces can and should be expanded and speeded. Second, the general said certain purely military problems of supply have to be dealt with quickly. Finally, said the general—"we must recognize that the Korean war is but the most dramatic and most painful phase of our worldwide struggle against Communist aggression." He said he is confident a satisfactory solution in Korea can be speeded. The Eisenhower statement was compared by GOP Senator Arthur Watkins of Utah to Teddy Roosevelt's policy of speaking softly and carrying a big stick. And many other congressmen joined Watkins in applauding the general's words on Korea. One Republican Senator, Guy Cordon of Oregon, said Eisenhower's statement didn't sound like the words of a demagogue to him—referring to President Truman's charge made last Thursday that the Korean tour grew out of campaign demagoguery. The general returned home just in time to be on hand for the casting of the official ballots for the presidency. Today members of the electoral college meet in their home states for the voting. There's no doubt as to the outcome—which will be 442 for Eisenhower and 89 for Stevenson. The general won't be officially elected until the votes are counted by a joint session of Congress on January 6. Eisenhower will be the nation's 34th President. The Republicans have scraped the Democratic practice of counting Grover Cleveland only once for his two terms—served four years apart. Protocol officials say he should be tallied twice. This morning Eisenhower showed up at his headquarters in the Commodore Hotel. With the Korean trip under his belt, he'll spend the next few weeks getting his administration in smooth shape to take over on January 20. And something during that period—he'll meet with General MacArthur to discuss the former far eastern commander's plan for ending the Korean fighting but there's no date set for that conference yet.

Foreign Ministers Discuss Oil Dispute

By United Press
The United States and a British foreign ministers held a private talk today in-between sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council in Paris. Secretaries Acheson and Eden discussed the Iranian oil dispute. And Acheson warned that Britain must waste no time in finding a solution. Otherwise, he said, the United States may act on its own in Iran. The need for urgency is great, said Acheson, because Iran may turn toward Communism unless its oil problem is settled satisfactorily. The Acheson-Eden meeting took place after the opening session of the 14 North Atlantic foreign ministers. The NATO council was warned that Russia is out to destroy western unity.

Decorations For Christmas Should Be Fireproof

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State Fire Marshal J. T. Underwood urged Kentuckians in the interest of a safe and sane Christmas season—against the use of combustible Christmas decorations and suggested that some children's toys introduce serious fire hazards that require extra precautions during the holiday season. Recalling last year's tragic Christmas fire in Tijuana, Lower California, when 34 persons died and 96 others were injured in a fire resulting from a blazing Christmas tree, Underwood suggested all follow "good sense safety rules" for a fire-safe holiday. He issued a number of safety admonitions which urged that children should not be left at home alone; that inflammable decorations be avoided; that in lighting only electric lights be used never candles, and particular precautions be taken that wires not be frayed or defective. Underwood urged, too, that electric trains not be placed under a tree and that chemical sets be used cautiously by children and grownups alike. "It is unwise to let younger children have toys involving flame or pressure," he Fire Marshal continued. "They are dangerous in young hands—and should be handled by older persons only with utmost caution." The Fire Marshal's attention was called by postal authorities to the fact that it is illegal to ship explosives through the mails—after Underwood had turned over to postal inspectors catalogs giving mail prices of fireworks.

Is There A Santa Claus?

The following editorial appeared in the New York Sun in 1897 in answer to a letter by eight-year old Virginia O'Hanlon. The LEDGER AND TIMES prints this letter and editorial each year for the benefit of its readers, and it has become one of the most outstanding Christmas pieces of all time.

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus promptly the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor—I am eight years old.
"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.
"Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.'
"Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"
"—Virginia O'Hanlon,
"115 West 95th Street."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him; as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight; the eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You think that the fairies dance and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it not real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else so real as that.

No Santa Claus, thank God, he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

A good way to get some money for Christmas is to clean out that attic or basement and sell what you don't want through a Ledger & Times Classified Ad.

NEW ATOM SPLITTER 'SHOOTS' IN STRAIGHT LINE

PHYSICISTS, mathematicians and engineers are shown at work on new type atom splitting "gun" at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. The "gun" will shoot electron "bullets" at highest velocities ever attained on earth, but in a straight-line down the 200-foot "barrel" instead of around a circular path, as is done in cyclotrons, synchrotrons and cosmotrons. Scientists know this device as the world's most powerful electron linear accelerator. It utilizes the most powerful battery of vacuum tubes ever built, and electrons will attain speed almost identical with that of light, which is 186,000 miles a second. At this speed they could go around the world 46 times a minute. (International Soundphoto)

Seven Foot Cage Star Hailed At Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—The word at Oregon State College is "wait" till next year—and the college really has something worth waiting for.
Currently toiling with the freshman basketball team is a youngster named "Swede" Halbrook. He's almost seven feet, one, and he's picked up 118 points in five games with the O-State team. Coach Halbrook, a product of Portland, Ore., where he scored 1,000 points during his high school career, is extremely agile for his height. In addition to remaining in lay-up, he can dribble, handle the ball well and has a deadly one-handed shot from the outside.
Coach Stutz Gilman Halbrook is a lot more than just another big kid. He points out that Halbrook is a good team man and says, "the second-year player can pass the trick—so, it'll be pretty hard to say he won't be great."

Rose Bowl Contract Not To Be Renewed By 10

CHICAGO (UPI)—A United Press survey indicates the Big 10 Conference probably will turn down the Pacific Coast Conference's invitation to renew the Rose Bowl contract.
According to the survey, six—and possibly seven—of the 10 schools would vote against renewal if the ballot were taken today.
Opposing the pact would be Minnesota, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Purdue, Iowa and Michigan State. Illinois would vote against renewal if the pact renews its present provision that as Big 10 school could compete twice in succession.
There is a little chance that the Big 10 will act on the conference's invitation to renew the agreement until the regular Big 10 meeting in May. Another possibility is the NCAA may have outlawed bowl games by that date.

Protestant Churches Declare Position On Church and State

A four-thousand word letter about church and state has been addressed to the nation's Protestants—the first of its kind in their history.
In it, the National Council of Churches of Christ says parochial schools should not be exempt themselves without "subsidies or special privileges from public authorities."
The Council—"to say must be found to make the pupils of American schools aware of the heritage of faith upon which this nation was established and which has been the most transforming influence in western culture."
And the declaration adds—"this we believe can be done in complete loyalty to the basic principles involved in the separation of church and state."
The Protestant Council, meeting in Denver, also has re-affirmed its stand opposing the proposed setting-up of American diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

Southeastern Teams Will Split Bowl Earnings

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Southeastern Conference has adopted a plan which will force members to divide bowl earnings with the rest of the teams in the league.
Under the new ruling—voted at the Southeastern league's meeting in Atlanta—a member's bowl "take" will be limited to 25 per cent of the receipts and the rest will be split among the other 11 schools.
The Big 10 and several other conferences already have such a rule. The measure will not go into effect until next season. "Five schools in bowl games this season—Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida—will be allowed to keep 75 per cent of the earnings. The conference will get 25 per cent."

Scar Removal Method Is Discovered

By United Press
A new way of removing acne and small pox scars and even tattoos has been found. They can be sandpapered off the skin.
The method was described by Dr. Claire L. Straith at a meeting in Chicago of the American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilology. An electric machine peels off the top skin layers, then a disk grinder with bristle disks take off the scars.
At the same meeting, Dr. Robert R. Kierland of the University of Minnesota said many people have extreme allergies to heat and cold that can cause them to die under only moderate exposure. He said such persons usually are sufferers from other allergies—such as hay fever or asthma. He warned that such persons should avoid the sun, very hot baths or swimming in chilly water. No treatment for these allergies is yet known.

A preparation made from the ground bone marrow of white mice is proving useful in treating other mice exposed to atomic radiation. Dr. L. O. Jacobson of the Argonne National Laboratories in Chicago says he hopes the discovery of the new compound will lead to similar compounds that can save human life in case of atomic radiation.

E. R. Weaver of the Bureau of Standards says there is no evidence chlorophyll has anything to do with deodorization. Professor A. H. ### Days Before Christmas Nearly As Much Fun As Christmas Day With Spirit In Air

By Virgil Sande (UP)

The last few days before Christmas are nearly as much fun as Christmas Day itself.

By then the scent, the sound and the spirit of Christmas are all around us. In the village square, along the city streets, and just about everywhere you look at home, Christmas carols fill the air from the radio and the church steeple. There's a wreath in nearly every window and on nearly every door. A crimson touch of holly brightens the mantelpiece, and the tree waits in the living room for the final touches to its festive dress.

These are busy days. The gifts you've walked your feet off to shop for now need the gay disguise of the seasonal offering. Centuries ago the legend spread of how plants blossomed and bloomed and trees miraculously bore ripened fruit on the eve of the first Christmas. Now the legend takes shape in the gaily wrapped packages beneath the tree.

Secret of Wrapping
The secret of distinctive wrapping is to make each package special ... with something of your own personality in it, and something of the recipient's. The first step lies in the proper selection of paper and ribbon. Nowadays you can find an appropriate holiday wrapping for any gift. There are traditional designs for conservatives and modern designs for the more unconventional. Wrappings for children's gifts feature gay Santas, Angels, candy canes, popcorn balls or sleigh-ride parties.

Metallic foil papers, according to the manufacturers, lead in popularity this year. But new gift wrappings with photographic scenes and embossed designs are gaining favor. One of the most popular designs this year features the new colored photograph of a winsome child nuzzling at a Christmas tree. Another is a simple paper of soft blue with the word "Christmas" in embossed silver script all over it. There also are many wrappings with religious patterns.

Startling Effects
Startling effects for smart packages can be achieved with the new shiny black and chartreuse flint papers with white and black lettering, and papers with fluorescent inks on dark backgrounds that glow like added lights under the tree.

A couple of hints for selecting papers: a striped pattern might be perfect for dad's slippers. Granny might prefer a sentimental lacy pattern, and the children probably would love a frolicking Santa. A large pattern looks best on a large package, a small repeated design on a small box. However, sometimes a large single design looks dramatic, centered on a small box.

When selecting your ribbon shades, the easiest rule to follow is to pick out the least dominant color in the paper design. Then the ribbon contrasts, but harmonizes with the paper. Three-dimensional accessories are new on the gift-trim market.

Humorous Designs
A few of the designs are a humorous Jack-in-box, a grumpy angel, a snow man with a red muffler and a dachshund wearing a gold blanket. Another novelty in gift ornaments is lightweight plastic figures of santas, angels, chimneys and trees. They can be strung first on the Christmas gift package, then put on the Christmas tree itself, after the present is opened.

With Christmas falling on Thursday this year, you're probably planning to do a good deal of your accessory holiday cooking staples over the weekend. Be sure there are plenty of nuts and fruits, fruitcake and candy on hand, particularly if you're planning to hold open houses on Christmas night, or the following weekend.

Buffet Supper
For a buffet supper you might serve shrimp cocktail, yule time ham, a holiday salad, mince pie or vanilla ice cream and coffee. With all the trimmings, of course—stuffed celery, black olives, carrot crisps, radish roses, and a large fruit and nut center piece on the buffet table.

Prepare your yule ham by criss-crossing the fat with diagonal slashes, one and one-half inches apart, to the bone. Put a clove in every third diamond and instead of the usual basting sauce, when ready to bake, paint the surface of the ham with an apricot syrup, every 15 minutes, until the ham is done. The syrup is made by heating one-third of a cup of apricot jam with one tablespoon of water. Before serving fill the remaining diamonds alternately with red cherries, green citron, and almond halves.

And now, with Christmas just 10 days away, and only 9 of them shopping days ... we leave you to your merry chores ... with our very best wishes for a happy holiday to you all.

Wheat Farmers Using US Price Supports

By United Press

Wheat farmers are making heavy use of the government price support program for their 1952 crop. USDA reports more than 330 million bushels of 1952 wheat were under price support by November 15. Last year, only 186 million bushels were under loan by December 1st.

Farmers can get support loans on 1952 wheat until the end of next January. Grains show less change. There were more than fifty-one million bushels of oats, barley, grain sor-ghums, corn, rye, sorghums and flaxseed under loan on November 15. Grains was $2-million bushels as of December 1st.

The end of another American harvest is reflected in another monthly report on farm employment in Washington.

Officials estimate some 8,330,000 persons were working on farms in late November—a decrease of about three million from one month earlier.

Good harvest—weather across most of the nation allowed farmers to wind up their work earlier than usual. And with heavy field work tapering off, farmers are working shorter hours.

Farm operators reported they were working a little more than nine hours a day in late November, about two hours a day less than in June. That's about what you'd expect. There's more interest in a comparison of figures which show that many farmers are working less this year than last year, about half an hour a day less in many midwestern states with smaller reductions in other areas.

Beware Of Radio Quacks, Commissioner

By United Press
The Federal Food and Drug Commission says many so-called nutrition experts who write books or speak on radio or television are quacks who use the "exploit the consumer's pocketbook and impair his health" as their motto.

Commissioner C. W. Crawford says many of the so-called experts are fronts for manufacturers trying to get around the Federal Pure Food laws. Crawford charges they disseminate false information about nutrition in their books and programs. He said this leads to bizarre diets and to nutritional neurosis. For the treatment of serious diseases.

He told a meeting of the National Food and Nutrition Institute in Washington that legislation is needed to control the use of food additives, ingredients with strange chemical names, for which extravagant claims are made by the food quacks. Crawford said many of these food additives are of questionable safety and their use might mean pills of the public and big profits for the promoters and quacks.

A University of Pittsburgh scientist, Dr. William Guy, has cited further evidence that eczema of the skin often is a psychosomatic disease caused by personal insecurity.

Dr. Guy cited 30 cases at a Chicago meeting of American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilology. All the patients showed a history of personal disorders and most had been the victims of rejection by their mothers, ranging from outright cruelty to simple partiality by the mother for another child.

The American Cancer Society announces it will spend a record $4,125,000 for research in the next year.

Dr. Arnold Welch of Western Reserve University in Cleveland, chairman of the society's committee on growth, says progress in cancer research has been speeded tremendously since the society began its large scale investigation seven years ago.

The millions of herring that threatened to force a power plant to shut down at Glenwood Landing, Long Island have departed—so suddenly as they arrived.

The small fish prevented the power plant by clogging the intake valve for the generator cooling system.

More than 1,500,000 children are expected to receive injections next year of the new polio preventative, gamma globulin. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis says this serum is the first big break against polio—but it can't lick the disease alone. Experiments with gamma globulin during the past 10 years indicates it gives five weeks immunity for children on the average. The injection must be given just before the outbreak of an epidemic, to be most effective.

Dr. James Green of the Department of Internal Medicine at Baylor University in Texas is preparing to transform a tiny, 17-year old girl into a normal-sized woman. Dr. Green says he hopes to accomplish the change through the injections of pure growth hormones. The tiny girl, Audrey Haddad, weighs only 52 pounds and is smaller than her nine-year old sister. As for the hormone injections, Dr. Green says "we won't know for some time what the effect will be. We're going to give the hormone slowly, not in big doses. We want her to grow naturally."

Milk Production Record Is Set

By United Press
The agriculture department reports that dairy farmers set a new milk production record on December 1st.

Dairy herds were producing more than fourteen and three-quarters pounds of milk per cow each day, on the average. And the reason can be found in reports on feeding as of December 1st, milk cows were getting more than five and a-half pounds of concentrated feed per day—another all-time high.

Milk production held up unusually well through November. But the figures aren't so impressive when compared with the nation's rising population.

The dairy industry turned out only a little more than 16 pounds of milk per person each day, the second lowest figure on record.

USDA also reports today the outlook for wheat and other grains planted this fall has improved considerably in the last month. Soils were dry at seeding time in most of the wheat belt, and by mid-November officials were warning the crop was in a dangerous position.

The rains that followed improved the situation rapidly. By December 1st, wheat in east north central areas had reached nearly average condition.

In Kansas and central Nebraska, prospects remain poor to fair, from Montana to Oregon and Washington, winter wheat is in poor condition.

But prospects are better in the east and south. And Texas reports a complete change from the gloomy outlook of one month ago.

More Power By Two Groups Is Expected Now

By United Press
Spokesman for business and agriculture are taking a second look at the Republican political victory.

Both groups expect more power, more control over government policy. And both are aware their responsibilities will be greater.

At Seattle, Washington, a business leader will address the American Farm Bureau Federation's national convention this morning. John S. Coleman, president of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company.

In his prepared speech, Coleman says government in the past often has ignored the voices of both business and agriculture. And he goes on—"it is tempting now to conclude that in the better days ahead, our voice will continually be heard."

Allan Kline, farm bureau president, says the same thing in different words: "Farmers now," he says, "have an opportunity to re-examine and re-direct American farm policy."

a chance they wouldn't have had if the old administration had carried on."

Coleman adds a warning, the government programs pushed by business and farm leaders must be sound, good for all the people. He sums it up this way:

"Business and farm leadership depend in the long run on our continuing ability to convince the average citizen that what is good for business and agriculture is good for him."

Both Coleman and Kline echo another warning—free enterprise in America might not live through another big depression. Even so, labor organizations lose some of their power in Washington, business and agriculture organizations will gain influence. And if a depression comes, they're likely to be tagged with much of the blame.

A Minnesota economist told farm bureau members depressions aren't inevitable, we don't necessarily have to have one. But it's not impossible.

Dr. O. B. Jessen told his audience at Seattle the secret of continued progress is in higher productivity, not in government subsidy.

He says instead of being absorbed in farm price programs, farmers should take a wider interest, an active interest in everything that promises to add to the nation's economic health and strength.

Little Worry Needed Regarding Foreign Imports

By United Press
An Agriculture department foreign trade expert says he doesn't think American livestock producers will have to worry much about increased competition from imports.

This country now imports most from Ireland, Mexico and Australia. Imports from Canada may be resumed next spring after the current foot-and-mouth disease embargo is lifted.

But the USDA spokesman says all the imports added together make up only a small portion of the meat American consumers eat each year.

From Canada, for example, we normally import 100 million pounds of beef a year, American consumers normally eat about 225 billion pounds.

The agriculture department has announced the purchase of another 370,000 pounds of turkey, part of a surplus removal program, with the turkey going to school lunch programs.

The size of the purchase was the smallest in some time. Only three weeks ago USDA bought more than five million pounds.
